It is said that the function of a university is to prepare the young to take their place in human society. It must provide its members with the knowledge and skill necessary to make them efficient citizens. Is a university only an institute for higher learning, a factory which turns our clerks and technicians able to run the machinery of the state ? Mere knowledge which gratifies curiosity is different from culture which refines personality. Culture is not remembering mass of serious details about the dates of birth of the great heroes of the world, or the interesting names of the fastest ships which cross the atlantic, or entertaining odds and ends gathered from the latest who's who. Plato said long ago that the culture of the soul is "the first and fairest thing that the best of men can ever have." According to Goethe, the object of education is to form taste and not simple to communicate knowledge. A man's culture is not be judged by the amount of tabulated information which he has at his command, but by the quality of mind which he brings to bear on the facts of life.

Translate the following passage into Hindi :

The history of communal riots dates back to the pre-independence days. Our British rulers followed the policy of divide and rule. They realized that if the Hindus and the Muslims are united, it would be impossible for them to rule over such a large country. Some leaders, inspired by the British, took advantage of the situation and put forward the "two nation theory". They said that the Hindus and the Muslims were two different nations. They had different religions and having different ways of life. As a result, there was the partition of the country. Lakhs of people were uprooted where they had been living for centuries. They lost everything and became completely destitute.
